

Wall to wall

This month, we're inspired by French designer Koziel's trompe-l'œil wallpaper range. With three different designs, this print will add a new dimension to your room. Reflect a studious attitude with the library design or create a rustic aesthetic with the oak-wood print. These realistic designs will take you to another place.

A Parisian reflection

A mirror is no longer just a functional item; it is now a statement piece, trending in its own right. Invest in a selection of contrasting frames this month with Christopher Guy's chic designs, which look like works of art. Place this mirror (below) in a prized position on your wall.

Bronze age

Clean lines and timeless design is at the core of Kamini Ezralow's Bronze collection. These Art Deco-inspired coffee tables are made from antique bronze and sycamore and will add a sense of understated luxury to any space.

Derian's decoupage

John Derian is eccentric. His playful ceramic range for Liberty London was designed using 18th century imagery, which he has collected during his travels over the past two decades. Each decoupage piece has been handmade by the designer in his New York studio. We particularly like this surrealist tray, which reminds us of the magical world of Alice and Wonderland, to add a touch of quirkiness to your kitchen.
